Public benefits

Regional Level

Working across two regions -

Yorkshire and Humber

North West

The environment and economic sectors, with civil society / third sector, working together for their own self interest

North West Region

New Environments for the Northwest economy. Throughout the decade, Newlands will invest in durable, healthy and economically viable landscapes.

New Life Transforming derelict and neglected land in England's Northwest into thriving community woodland, benefiting business, communities and the region as a whole.

New Partnerships Through powerful partnerships, Newlands is uniting national priorities with a regional landscape to effect dramatic change.

Today's headlines (UK)

- Regionalism out..... So what's in??
- “Big society”??
- Alternative models of decision making,
e.g.
- Cooperatives & joint ventures ... OR...
- “Localism”.... What's that ???

Localism in action

What helps this work??

- Action not words – seeing is believing
- Creating “edible learning landscapes” in our schools
- Public sector creating opportunities & removing obstacles (not directing)
- Releasing dormant assets for local use
- Local responsibility for local assets, e.g. market halls

At the local level

KEY FEATURES

- Extended chains of social collaboration & investment between public / private / community
- Knowledge networking, social learning, shared intelligence
- Role of leadership, policy intermediation, community hubs & gateways
- Enabling role of policy & programmes: to support & promote self-organizing diversity and resilience

Peri-urban & peri-rural partnerships

WORKING:

- Across boundaries
- Across sectors
- Across hierarchies
- Challenging power structures

DIRECTING
